Academy of Fine Arts.

Saatchi Art Critics choice: Nora was also chosen as one of the top ten artists out of eighty thousand international artists showing their work on the Saatchi web site, by famous London and New York art critic Anna Finel Honigman

Nora Doherty is an up and coming highly regarded Teignmouth (Devon) artist. She paints only with high quality oils in a semi-abstract neo-luminist style (as in 'playing with light') creating unique, bold contemporary paintings which vibrate with colour, light and depth. Through sheer hard work and experiment, Nora is self-taught and has learnt to use the flow and purity of colour of traditional high quality artists oil paints to transform space and landscape into highly expressive, flowing oil paintings.

Nora lives and paints in her home overlooking the sea just outside Teignmouth, Devon. It is the huge expanse of sea and sky before her every day, and her meditation practice, which has inspired many of her paintings, particularly those which, in a zen-like way, reflect the interplay of sea and sky, landscape and body. Alongside her imaginative sea and sky scapes, Nora also paints unusual abstract forms which spiral into a sense of infinite space....

Pure 'visual pleasure' that appeals to a wide range of people.....

Living by the ocean has been the 'door' or the key to Nora's creative flow. She hopes that just looking at her paintings will also create new 'openings' and new possibilities in the viewer. It is totally up to you what you see in the painting.
